MEET JACK LEE

A Fall 2017 freshman from Shanghai, China. Shortly before arriving at NYU, he came to Christ through a youth ministry in his hometown. A few short months later he was sitting across the table from his first NYC Christian contact, David. Though Kopi Kopi, a favorite coffeeshop for student meetings, was quiet, Jack was full of life, stories and a hunger to connect to other believers. He came to nearly every Welcome Week* event we planned, started a group chat to connect other freshmen exploring Cru and even began sharing personal videos to encourage fellowship and invite accountability. By the end of the year he was being discipled, helping lead worship at our weekly meetings and actively sharing his faith on campus! In the midst of a spiritually challenging environment, Jack was flourishing. And he wanted more.

SUMMER FOR HIS GLORY

He'd heard about a summer opportunity where his love for Jesus, skill in evangelism, depth in relationship, knowledge of the Word and development as a person would all grow exponentially and he was hooked. How could he get all these in one summer? David invited him to apply for the Wildwood Summer Mission he was leading on New Jersey's southernmost shore. Even though he was a new believer, and knew few other believers, he took the plunge (and saw the necessary funding come in record time)!

ON MISSION

Now, halfway into the summer, Jack is known as a servant to all on the Mission of 19 other students where he regularly cooks for the nine other men and lends his photo/video Major skills to capture the Mission's important moments (like one of the students' baptism!). It's a place where he's been able to wrestle with the hard questions and find answers in the Word and in community. Praise God for His work in this man's life!
